"Our Goal is to Love as God Loves"

President Larry Carter

Recently, I wrote a note to all of our GLCC family stating unequivocally our position on matters of race, especially racial discrimination. I appreciate the positive comments we have received and hope that it has brought a greater degree of unity within our ranks. But our position on race should not have come as a surprise to anyone. We have consistently worked toward including, accepting and loving all of our students no matter their ethnic or racial background.

When I came here as President about 20 years ago our student population was then made up of mostly small-town white students. While our campus displayed homogeneity and harmony and our graduates went on to serve the Lord in a number of wonderful ways, there was something missing. Diversity. God had placed our college in a state that was rich in diversity. The problem was we didn't reflect the reality of God's creation. Statistics told us that about 13% of Michiganders were African-American. So, the question was, "Shouldn't our campus reflect the diversity of where God has placed us?"

FIRST BIBLICAL FOUNDATIONS CERTIFICATE RECIPIENT

We congratulate Larry Moeggenberg, a non-traditional student from St. Johns, for being the first to complete the Biblical Foundations Certificate. This is composed of eight-15 week course taking a person through the study of the Bible and Theology. Larry found Jesus Christ later in life and desired to fast track his knowledge of the Bible in order to teach and preach in his church. He says, "My association with GLCC has fulfilled that requirement, and then some. I seriously recommend the course selections made by GLCC to enrich any serious Scripture study. The time and effort extended was well spent."
