"The Committed Men and Women of GLCC"

President Larry Carter

We have been blessed by having so many committed men and women work with us at Great Lakes Christian College. All through the decades God has brought to us talented, gifted, and faith-filled individuals who have served the College with distinction – whether it was in the classroom or business office. We owe them a debt of gratitude. Because of their work our region has the benefit of having trained servants fill their pulpits, lead youth groups, direct Christian non-profits, counsel families, run pre-schools and child care facilities, and teach the next generation to love Jesus as they do. Because of the committed and sometimes sacrificial work of all those who have labored here it is difficult to focus special attention on one. But, with the announcement of George Brown's retirement it seemed appropriate to write about this remarkable man. George Brown has spent the last 42 years as our Professor of English. Now, that, by itself, does not encompass the impact this man has had on so many lives. Yes, his insistence on proper grammar, competent writing, and his love of literature has helped hundreds of students become more erudite, articulate, and aware of the universal condition of man – but his influence was far greater than that. George was just as impactful outside the classroom. His love of others, his acceptance of them no matter where they were on their spiritual journey, has made a lasting impression on our students' lives. George has a servant's heart. Many can testify of how he has shared his time, talents, and treasure to restore a house, provide transportation, extend hospitality, give money, dig a ditch, or do whatever it takes to meet a need. He is a diligent workman with an incredibly strong work ethic. He puts his heart into everything he does – whether on foreign soil or here at home.

He has led an exemplary life. Former students have written about his influence.

Here are a few:

"You were an encourager, mentor, challenger and guide. Thank you for being a pillar of Great Lakes."

"Thank you for being a beacon of light in my life and in the lives of so many others.

You are an intelligent and creative educator, but more importantly, you invest in the lives of others and demonstrate that you care."

"For your time, your love, your wisdom, your knowledge, your encouragement, your patience, your talents, your example, your faithfulness, we are all indebted forever."

"Words are not enough to say how much you have meant to the college and countless students for the past 42 years."

Fortunately for us, George will continue to serve GLCC as an adjunct professor. He still occupies his corner office. His door is always open. He continues to serve.

Professor George Brown Retires

We appreciate the 42 years of service that George has given to GLCC. His investment of life to see the legacy of Great Lakes continue is commendable. George was more than a teacher, he was a mentor who disciplined and trained servant-leaders for the church and world.

George will continue to adjunct teach for us and continue his impact on students. If you would like to send greetings to George, contact him by email.

Chuck and Amy Emmert Receive the 2020 Divine Servant Award

Chuck and Amy Emmert received the Dr. Doty Divine Servant Award on August 29 as a part of the Commencement service for the 2020 graduates.

The Emmerts started ministry in the local church in 1975 while attending GLCC and served the Memorial Church of Christ, Novesta Church of Christ, and the Duplain Church of Christ. Amy graduated from GLCC in 1977 and Chuck in 1978 and then went on to enjoy fruitful ministries.

The Divine Servant Award is given to a senior student or alumni who exemplifies the servant example of Christ and of Dr. Brant Lee Doty. Dr. Keith Keeran, Chancellor of Kentucky Christian College and former GLCC professor and friend says, "They are certainly to be counted among the most authentic and faithful of God's people. They speak volumes by the way they serve and live their lives in the presence of others."

Chuck and Amy will retire and finish their ministry with the Duplain Church of Christ, December 31, 2020.
