Christian higher education is beneficial for any career path.

*Dr. John Nugent,
VP of Academic Affairs and Professor of Theology*

The benefits of Christian higher education to paid ministers are obvious. But what about those going into other occupations? Dr. Ron Peters, professor of New Testament, wrote an excellent article about this. Here I briefly highlight three reasons why it is extremely valuable for all believers to consider Christian higher education, regardless of their career path.

1. Christian higher education strengthens the students' Christian worldview rather than undermine it. Most universities are overtly hostile to core Christian commitments. They see Christianity as a barrier to the kind of truly free society they envision. They openly attack Christian beliefs that challenge their vision. No version of higher education is neutral. All pursue a worldview shaping agenda. What worldview does the church want for the next generation?
2. Christian higher education strengthens churches with biblically literate members. For churches who affirm the priesthood of all believers, it is vitally important that paid ministers do not do the work of ministry on behalf of the church but "equip the saints for the work of ministry" (Eph 4:12). The church is built up as all members grow in their knowledge of God's Word and participation in God's mission. This requires extensive teaching and leading by those who can navigate the entirety of Scripture and complexity of faith competently. GLCC builds such competency in all our students.
3. Christian higher education enables students to see how any occupation they may pursue participates in the Christian vocation to which every member is called at baptism. No believer is exempt from God's mission, and no occupation operates independent of Christ's Lordship. Christian higher education equips student to live out their faith in the workforce no matter what job they may have. In fact, marketplace ministry is the ministry most strategically positioned to meet unbelievers where they are at in their need for a Savior.

DISCOVER GLCC Regional Meetings are scheduled for the end of the year. We invite church representatives from the following camp areas to join us for an opportunity to become more acquainted with the ministry of GLCC. President Weller will give an update on the College, share the challenges that we face and encourage new partnerships.

If you are a part of either of these two camp regions, join us by clicking on the QR code to register.

Ministers, elders, mission team members, or interested constituents are invited to attend.

Support the Mission of GLCC through the Log Cabin Society

I want to be a
Log Cabin Society member

The Log Cabin Society is made up of members who commit to sustaining the mission of Great Lakes Christian College with multi-level gifts made over a period of years.

GLCC began in a log cabin in Vestaburg, MI at Rock Lake Christian Assembly in 1949. Beginning with that cabin, men and women have been trained to work in the Kingdom of God. It's vital that the mission of training students to be servant-leaders in the church and world continue into the future. We ask that you prayerfully consider how God can give through you a sustaining gift that will benefit generations to come.
